There is no doubt that the FIM Motocross World Championship has now established itself as the premier off-road series on the planet and continues to go from strength to strength year on year. The 2018 season was certainly one to be remembered and signed off with an amazing finale at the Monster Energy FIM Motocross of Nations in the USA.

With those memories still fresh in our minds, 2019 looks set to deliver at an even higher level with a total of nineteen rounds scheduled to determine the eventual FIM World Champions ahead of this year's Monster Energy FIM Motocross of Nations at the famous Dutch circuit of Assen.

Whilst I may be new in the role as FIM President, I have followed closely the development of the MXGP series. The huge efforts by all the main stakeholders to reach the high and professional standards it enjoys today have not gone unnoticed.

From the hundreds of thousands of fans who line the tough and testing tracks throughout the season through to the millions who watch the colossal battles via the many TV channels that broadcast the action around the globe, and not forgetting the huge audience who follows the far reaching campaign on social media – each and every person has benefitted from the progress that has been achieved over the last twenty years.

In more recent years the championship has confirmed its growing global appeal with more and more countries being added to the calendar across several continents. The standout additions to the 2019 schedule are the two new venues in Asia, with the closing round of the series in Hong Kong already being one of the most highly anticipated encounters in the long history of the championship.

Alongside the more far flung destinations, the events in Europe and the inclusion of the European Championship over selected race weekends are a very important part of the series, especially in terms of developing new talent amongst the youth and emerging ranks who represent potential future FIM World Champions in waiting.

The success of this ambitious and wide-ranging championship could not be achieved without the support of all parties, and in particular in the riders, manufacturers and teams who continue to embrace the challenges such an extensive campaign demands. Whilst it will always be the riders who rightly grab the headlines throughout the season, we must never forget the less visible heroes of this sport.

With this in mind and on behalf of the FIM, I would like to congratulate and thank our promoter Youthstream who continues to drive this discipline forward with great vision and passion. I would also like to express my thanks to all the local organisers, national federations, FIM officials, volunteers, media, sponsors and fans – all of whom combine to make the FIM Motocross World Championship a true sporting success and one the motorcycling family can be immensely proud of.

Jorge Viegas FIM President

Once again, we begin a new season of MXGP and it gives me great pleasure to welcome everybody to the greatest motocross series in the World. Over the last number of years we have seen unbelievable growth in the Championship with a greater than ever interest from both media and industry plus the ever increasing number of national promoters looking to be considered for a place in the calendar. This has not been an overnight success, it has taken over twenty years to get to the position in which we are today. This growth and success is due to the total promotion and management by our partner, Youthstream, whom we owe a great deal of gratitude to for this elevated level that we have managed to reach together in 2019. This year will see new countries joining the calendar, with Shanghai, China and Hong Kong also being part of the 2019 series this will further enhance the promotion value of our sport in the most populated region of the world.

Of course, we must also thank all the riders and teams that have travelled this journey with us, the professional teams are a huge part of what we do together week in and week out. To the teams and riders, we owe a great deal for the constant support that they have given to us, thank you all.

It is a new year and I want to express a very warm welcome to all those new and returning as part of the MXGP season this year. While we will take some time before we start in Europe it's always great to see the new talent that flows from the European Motocross Championship into the World Championship and it has been a huge success for the MXGP series without doubt.

For 2019 I want to express a great deal of gratitude to the many volunteers that descend to each round of the Championship worldwide, full of commitment and dedication to support the sport that they love and care about while also fulfilling a dream to be alongside the greatest stars of our sport. Wishing to all that make it happen a great year no matter what corner of the world you are from or what part you play in this, the best Motocross series on the planet.

Antonio Alia Portela FIM/CMS Director

Dear MXGP Friends.

The 2018 MXGP Championship was intense and highlighted by phenomenal performances in both classes. The MXoN at Red Bud in USA was undoubtedly the climax of the Motocross season and showed the high level of World Championship riders today. And now we are ready for the 2019 season

MXGP is growing each year and 2018 was again no exception. MXGP was followed by a huge number of fans via the worldwide TV coverage and in 2018 MXGP was televised on many prestigious local TV broadcasters along with Eurosport for Europe, CBS Sports Network for USA and Canada and FOX Sports for Latin America, Asia and Oceania for a total of almost 13,000 hours in 120 different countries around the world.

MXGP's presence on the various social network platforms is also attracting a lot of interest from young fans from all over the world, we are proud to have more than 2,640,000 'likes' on MXGP's Facebook, 63,000 followers on Twitter and 688,000 followers on Instagram.

More and more people are really appreciating MXGP-TV. com, and it has become very popular with 1.5 million users, and the MXGP-TV Youtube channel has 17 million viewers in 2018. As most people know today, on top of the Sundays' action, MXGP-TV.com provides all of Saturday's activities live, including the MXGP and MX2 qualifying races and European Championship races, and every year MXGP-TV endeavors to improve the content it has to offer fans.

MXGP MAG has also become very popular since its first release in September 2013 it has had more than 23 million impressions.

The MXGP Pro Official Motocross videogame, has sold more than 1.7 million copies worldwide, creating interest from young people who would otherwise not be linked to Motocross but thanks to the videogame they fall in love with the sport and start following it.

2,123 journalists and photographers covered the 2018 MXGP season and MXGP received 737,000 spectators to its events, with a massive 81,700 spectators attending the 2018 Monster Energy FIM Motocross of Nations that was held in Red Bud, USA.

As a result of this impressive growth in interest, MXGP is becoming more and more popular and requests are coming in for more events in more countries all over the world. The 2019 FIM Motocross World Championship calendar is quite possibly the best in the history of Motocross, and it is proof of MXGP's good health because we see requests to organize an MXGP event are increasing each year and the quality of the organization is also steadily improving.

The inclusion of the European Championship during the MXGP race weekend is bearing its fruit with young talented riders being able to show their capabilities in a professional atmosphere. We are seeing riders from a very young age being taken into experienced teams and nurtured into professional racing, we believe the high level of the World Championship riders at the MXoN is the consequence of the investment into youth over many years. Youth are very important to Youthstream and that is why we continue our support for the MXGP Academy and other youth organizations to ensure the education and passion of youth in Motocross.

In cooperation with the FIM, FIM-Europe, Youthstream, local organizers, manufactures, teams, riders, media, sponsors and with the great support received from the MXGP fans today MXGP has become the most popular off-road motorcycle championship in the world. Youthstream would like to thank all these indispensable partners who believe in MXGP and support its growth.

Giuseppe LuongoPresident of Youthstream Group

MARCH 3

ROAD DIRECTIONS

By car:

From Bariloche you will drive towards the north and about 20 kms away you will find the route to Villa La Angostura which is 70 kms away. It is all paved and it has a beautiful overlook of all the coast line of Nahuel Huapi Lake.

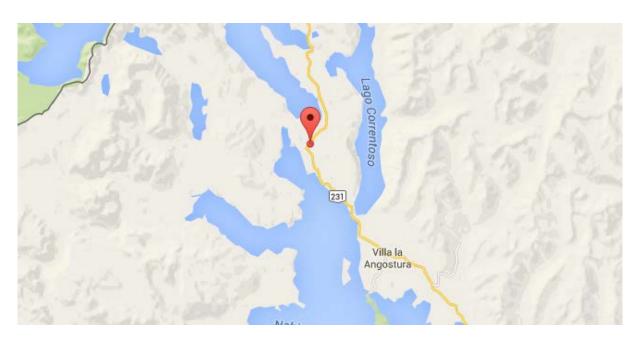

From the North you can get here along the Seven Lakes Route, which you can take in San Martin de los Andes. You will have a 90 kms drive while observing the mountain range lakes with their awesome sights.

Frontier passages:

Cardenal Samoré Passage (former Puyehue)

It is 1314 AMSL (42° 29' 07" South Latitude -70° 25' 91" West Longitude) and it is open all year long. It is considered the second most important in the country because it has direct communication with Puerto Montt (220 kms away) and Osorno (117 kms away) along the Chilean Austral Motorway and with all the other parts of the Chilean Patagonia.

The road is paved in almost all its stretches, you must be careful in the stretches which are still being built. It is an important commercial passage, which makes the traffic quite thick. The road is of rubble over National Route 231, it is averagely 7 metres wide and it is in good conditions. The distance to the limit is 4 kms.5

2019 MXGP, FIM MOTOCROSS WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP

2019 MONSTER ENERGY FIM MOTOCROSS OF NATIONS

HISTORY OF THE FIM MOTOCROSS WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP

The history of Motocross begins in the early 20th century when the first events took place in Great Britain, specifically during the 1920s when the first competitions known as "scrambles" were held. Once the Second World War ended, the sport started to grow from a national to an international level with the very first team event known as Motocross des Nations, racing with 500cc machines and taking place in 1947 in the Netherlands. Although the Belgian rider Auguste Mingels was faster, the team classification prevailed and Great Britain claimed the first Trophy. From then on this special event was held regularly every year, and mostly dominated by the British team until the end of the 1960s. The Trophée des Nations, team event for 250cc machines, was added in 1961, and the Coupe des Nations (for teams with 125cc motorcycles) in 1981. In 1984, the rules were changed: the three classes would race together, each time entering three riders. Currently America is the most successful Nation in this event which they have won 20 times.

Back in the 50s, on the individual level, Motocross started to grow fast, with many events held in various countries. This led the FIM to introduce the first European Championship in 1952. That maiden series was open to 500cc motorcycles and the first winner was Belgian Victor Leloup onboard an FN machine. He was followed by August Mingels in '53 and '54, before British riders John Draper and Leslie Archer took over. But another country was also reaching the top in Motocross – individual and team – in those days, beside Great Britain and Belgium, that country was Sweden.

From European to World Championship. Joel Robert (250cc) and Roger De Coster (500cc) make their name.

After five years of European Championship, Motocross took an important step forward with the series being promoted to the World Championship status in 1957 – winner was Swedish Bill Nilsson onboard an AJS machine. Still in 1957 the first European Cup for 250cc motorcycles was created to match the popularity of this upcoming discipline. This Cup would last only two years to be promoted to the European Championship status in 1959. Three years later in 1962, the 250cc class had its first World Championship with the eventual winner being legendary Husqvarna mounted Torsten Hallman from Sweden. The Swedish won the Title for two consecutive years until upcoming talent Joel Robert from Belgium steered his CZ to victory collecting the first of six titles - a record which would remain unbeaten until 2002.

Robert would win another five 250cc World Titles from 1968 until 1972, the year of birth of his countryman Stefan Everts, the man who will break all the records 30 years later.

As Japanese manufacturers entered the series in the late 60s, Joel Robert was the first World Championship winner onboard such a machine as he steered the Suzuki to victory in the 250cc class in 1970.

One year later Suzuki would win another 250cc World Title with Robert but success came also in the 500cc class. Now a myth in the sport, in 1971 Roger De Coster and Suzuki won their first 500cc Championship which was also the first of five World Titles for De Coster – all in the 500cc class.

1973-1990

The arrival of the 125cc World Championship.

Eric Geboers and Jean Michel Bayle great ambassadors of Motocross.

In 1973 another class, the 125cc, had its dedicated European Championship, which was won for two consecutive years by Belgian André Malherbe on a Zundapp. In 1975 it became a World Championship and Gaston Rahier won the Title straight away onboard a Suzuki, the first manufacturer to ever claim a Title in all three classes.

Malherbe would exploit his early 125cc experience to collect the 500cc World Title in 1980 and 1981 as Belgium was shaping up like the most talented country for Motocross. In 1975 another Belgian, Harry Everts, took his first 250cc World Title. He will win another three Championships in his career before retiring and raising his child Stefan.

In 1982 another star entered the World Motocross Championship with Eric Geboers winning the 125cc Championship after Everts had dominated it for three consecutive years – before Everts, Japanese Akira Watanabe took the 125cc crown in 1978. Geboers would storm through the field to remarkably win all three World Titles 125cc, 250cc and 500cc granting him the nickname of Mr. 875, the sum of 125, 250 and 500. Basically Eric Geboers was the first man to ever win one World Title in each category.

Georges Jobe and Dave Thorpe would also write their names in the record books of the World Champions in these years, while exceptional young guns would come up to establish the base of the next decades of World Motocross.

French Jean Michel Bayle and Italian Alex Puzar won their first titles in 1988 and in 1990 respectively. As Puzar went on for more success in the series, Bayle first moved to Supercross, then to Road Racing collecting strong results and becoming a legend for his incredible talent in motorsports.

1991-2000

New generation four stroke machines enter and win World Titles. Stefan Everts begins his winning streak.

This decade of World Motocross started with the Title of Stefan Everts, currently the most successful Motocross rider ever with 10 World Titles and 101 GP wins to his credit. Onboard a Suzuki, Everts – son of Harry Everts - became World Champion in the 125cc class in 1991 to be succeeded by Greg Albertijn in 1992 as the latter became the first South African to collect a World Title in Motocross.

Albertijn would win other two World Titles in the 250cc class as the 125cc class saw Italian Alessio "Chicco" Chiodi win the Championship for three consecutive years from 1997 until 1999

Sebastien Tortelli, another of Everts' main rivals throughout his career together with Albertijn, also passed by the 125cc World Championship, which he won in 1996, before winning in 250cc in 1998.

French countryman Frederic Bolley succeeded to Tortelli in 1999 and 2000 winning two consecutive 250cc Titles.

With new generation four stroke machines becoming popular in the GP campaign in 1999 came the first World Title. Yamaha mounted Andrea Bartolini was the first rider to win a Championship with such a machine beating Joel Smets, the 500cc Title winner in the previous two years and also in 2000.

Youthstream celebrates Stefan Everts and the new generation during the years of records. Women and Veterans racing dedicated series.

The last years have seen Motocross develop very quickly courtesy of the professional work of new promoter Youthstream headed by President Giuseppe Luongo, a man who had been involved in Motocross since 1983. Youthstream took the World Motocross Championships and the Motocross of Nations to the next level as the series increased the visits overseas and benefitted from a strong TV and media coverage. Nowadays the riders involved in the Championships come from more than 30 different nations, the races are watched onsite by more than half a million spectators, as the number of TV viewers overtakes one billion.

In 2004 the classes were renamed. The 125cc was called MX2 and is now hosting mainly 250cc four stroke bikes. The 250cc class was renamed MX1 hosting 450cc four stroke machines as the former 500cc class became an open class, the MX3.

The professional set up was matched by excellent racing and new talents going through the ranks such as Steve Ramon, Ben Townley, Antonio "Tony" Cairoli, Tyla Rattray, Tommy Searle just to name a few.

Though this decade will be remembered for the breakthrough of Stefan Everts. The Belgian went on to take his 10th World Title and his 101st GP victory in 2006, his last year of professional racing before retiring and becoming Team Manager for the factory KTM Motocross Team. Everts set the records, which are now the ultimate challenge of the whole younger generations of professional Motocross racers.

2007-2016

The youngsters leave their mark on the FIM Motocross World Championship. Philippaerts, Cairoli, Desalle, Musquin, Roczen, Herlings, Febvre, Gajser and many more set the Championship on fire.

These years the young guns of the FIM Motocross World Championship have established their authority on the series.

Ramon succeeded to Everts in the MX1 series in 2007 after the season's dominator Coppins was taken out by a shoulder injury. Italian Cairoli took back the MX2 Title, as 2006 World Champion Pourcel was unable to defend the crown due to an up and down season which ended in a severe back injury.

After two years of team management, Stefan Everts celebrated the first World Title with Tyla Rattray winning the MX2 World Championship in 2008. That was also the year David Philippaerts won his maiden World Title in the MX1 despite it being only his second year in contention.

Year by year the level and speed that Grand Prix riders ride at progresses and now the most skilled ones are aiming to beat the older generations' records. In 2010 Cairoli decided to ride the revolutionary KTM 350cc on which the Italian claimed his fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth World Titles in six consecutive years. The Italian is breaking all the records, and continues to do so as he has won seventy-two Grand Prix's and sits second on the list of most Grand Prix wins, twenty nine behind 'The King' Stefan Everts.

In the MX2, young German talent Ken Roczen joined KTM and obtained his maiden World Title in 2011 in front of his home crowd in Gaildorf, Germany. The talented German also wrote his name in the motocross history of his country before moving to the USA to live his American dream. With Roczen gone, 2012 and 13 have been dominated by Dutch phenomenon Jeffrey Herlings. At the ripe age of eighteen, Herlings has already added two FIM MX2 World Titles to his list of career achievements, which he obtained with two near perfect seasons. 2014 saw Herlings line-up for his third consecutive MX2 World Title with his main goal being to win every Grand Prix.

In 2014 Red Bull KTM Factory Racing's Antonio Cairoli continued to chip away at Stefan Everts ten FIM Motocross World Championship titles taking title number eight in Trindade, Brazil. Jeremy Van Horebeek also stamped his name on the championship as the most consistent rider in the MXGP class banking eleven consecutive podium finishes. After missing the podium at round 13 in Finland, the Belgian bounced back at round 14 in the Czech Republic to take home his first ever MXGP class win. The twenty-four year old finished the season as the vice MXGP world champion.

While the racing in 2014 was amazing, all attention had already turned to 2015 with the championship expected to blow all other seasons out of the water. In 2015 MXGP's talent pool is deeper than ever especially with the arrival of American legend, multi-time AMA supercross and motocross champion, Ryan Villopoto. Villopoto is the first American with a résumé as rich as his to make the transition from the AMA series' to the FIM Motocross World Championship.

2014 produced one of the best seasons of MX2 racing the championship is yet to witness, starting with young French star Dylan Ferrandis' win of one race at round one in Qatar. The on-watchers were shocked, to say the least, that the usual dominating force Jeffrey Herlings appeared weaker than he had over the previous two seasons. The Dutch sensation Herlings then went on to admit he was recovering from a leg injury.

After not getting off to the greatest of starts, which allowed the likes of Arnaud Tonus to claim his first ever MX2 round win and Glenn Coldenhoff to take his first ever race win, things went from bad to worst for the two-time FIM MX2 World Champ Herlings when he broke his femur racing for charity right on the heels of wrapping up his third consecutive FIM MX2 World Championship. With Herlings out MX2 became 100% unpredictable, each race was intense from start to finish and each first time win for riders such as Jordi Tixier, Romain Febvre, Max Anstie and Tim Gajser was hard fought and earned.

In a heroic effort to clinch the title despite suffering from an unhealed broken femur, Herlings who had won twelve of the thirteen Grand Prix he contested was forced to settle for second with only four valuable points separating himself and his Red Bull KTM Factory Racing teammate Jordi Tixier. Tixier on the other hand used his 'never give up' attitude to silence his critics, bounce back from a dip and win his first ever FIM Motocross World Championship in impressive style.

It was expected to be epic and the 2015 FIM Motocross World Championship didn't fail to deliver, in terms of being the best season of racing ever.

Heading into round one, the MXGP of Qatar, all eyes were on Ryan Villopoto and the defending champ Antonio Cairoli. No one expected that neither Villopoto nor Cairoli would finish off the podium, and that is exactly what happened. Red Bull IceOne Husqvarna Factory Racing's Max Nagl was the early season dominator, he won both races in Qatar, had a shocker in Thailand but bounced back to finish inside the top two at the following four rounds. Nagl took the red plate at the MXGP of Trentino in Pietramurata, Italy, and held onto it for 6 rounds before breaking his ankle in the qualifying heat at round ten of the championship, his home grand prix, the MXGP of Germany. After Nagl's disappointment in Thailand, it was the Rockstar Energy Suzuki World MXGP's Clement Desalle who claimed the red plate and held it for three rounds before handing it over to Nagl. Desalle's season also came to an end early on when he dislocated his shoulder at round eight, the MXGP of France, which later required surgery. With both Nagl and Desalle on the sidelines, the breakout star of 2015, Yamaha Factory Racing Yamalube's Romain Febvre took the red plate for the first time in his career.

The series was fickle, but it was apparent that the rookie Romain Febvre was something special. The young Frenchman, youngest in the class to be precise, small in stature but with the potentially the greatest determination, clinched the red plate with both hands. He was crowned the 2015 FIM Motocross World Champion in the premier class MXGP with the statistics proving he is the worthy champion. The '461', Febvre's number, led the most laps, 190 compared to Nagl's 114. He won 15 races, 8 grand prix' and finished on the podium 13 times in succession. Febvre wrapped up the championship at the sixteenth round of eighteen, in Assen, The Netherlands and finally won it by 143 points over fellow Frenchman, Team HRC's Gautier Paulin. Paulin edged out his teammate Evgeny Bobryshev, from Russia, by 25 points. The Team HRC boys rounded off the podium in 2015.

Meanwhile in MX2, it was another dramatic year for the former two-times MX2 World Champion, Jeffrey Herlings. The Dutch sensation had some gnarly crashes throughout the season, which saw him miss round ten with a broken clavical and round twelve with a lacerated finger. The final time Herlings would line up in 2015 was at round thirteen, MXGP of The Czech Republic, where he broke his hip in qualifying and ended his season.

Despite the hardship of the number '84', Herlings, he led the most laps, had the most race wins and held the red plate for the first 13 rounds of the championship. Due to his injury, the MX2 title was blown open, which saw the rise of Red Bull KTM Factory Racing's Pauls Jonass, Honda Gariboldi's young gun Tim Gajser, Monster Energy DRT Kawasaki's Max Anstie and Standing Construct Yamaha Yamalube's Valentin Guillod.

The fight was fierce. Max Anstie was the first rider to take a stand. The Brit took a double victory at the MXGP of Latvia and then again at the MXGP rounds of Belgium and Lombardia. He finished the season second on the leader board in terms of laps led, 147, behind Herlings who led 198 laps. Although Anstie had the speed, he didn't have the consistency, especially that of Pauls Jonass, who held the red plate briefly despite that fact he hadn't ever won a race.

Jonass did manage to reach that milestone when he won his first ever MX2 race in Mexico, but by then Tim Gajser already had the red plate and was putting in some consistent results. Nearing the end of the season, the pressure of potentially being crowned the 2015 FIM Motocross MX2 World Champion was starting to get to Jonass and Anstie. Both riders had some big crashes, which saw them throw away valuable points.

Gajser, on the other hand was riding solid. He took a surprise victory in the sand of Assen at MXGP of The Netherlands which made him top the charts as the rider with the most MX2 grand prix overalls, 5 compared to Herlings' 4 and Guillod's 3. A second place behind American Thomas Covington, who took his maiden MX2 race and grand prix win in Mexico, saw the Slovenian stretch his points lead ever so slightly.

The championship ended up going down to the wire with Gajser clinching the title in the final race of the season at the Monster Energy MXGP of The USA in Glen Helen. Jonass was forced to be content with second while Anstie rounded off the podium in third.

With the newly crowned and unexpected MX2 champion of Tim Gajser joining the MXGP class, and the return of Jeffrey Herlings to MX2 racing, 2016 was set to be yet another season of extraordinary competition.

The 2015 MXGP World champion Romain Febvre and the 2015 MX2 champion Tim Gajser started the championship chase early at Qatar. To the surprise of many, Honda Gariboldi's Gajser outperformed HRC Honda's Evgeny Bobryshev and reigning champion Febvre.

Gajser made it clear he was a title contender as a rookie but Romain Febvre answered by winning the following two rounds, capturing the red plate. Febvre held the points lead until Teutschenthal, where a tip over in the first moto gave the 243 Honda rider, Gajser, the edge he needed. Multi-time champion Antonio Cairoli showed he was ready to compete after winning his first GP in nearly a year.

The MXGP of Great Britain was an important point in the championship where the Yamaha rider of Febvre went down hard. Febvre was out of contention for two rounds allowing the points lead of Gajser to grow.

Gajser rode consistent until Assen, where the conditions got the best of him. But with Febvre losing out on points the battle between 2nd and 3rd in the championship tightened.

Afterwards, the championship headed to America. At the Monster Energy MXGP of Americas in Charlotte, North Carolina, Gajser was crowned FIM MXGP World Champion, only one year after winning the MX2 championship. The season came to an end at Glen Helen where the American Eli Tomac won his second GP in a row. It was KTM's Antonio Cairoli who finished the season 2nd followed by Husqvarna's Max Nagl.

The first round of MX2 in Qatar started strong for title hopeful Dylan Ferrandis. Herlings claimed the first victory of the year going 1-1 with Ferrandis on his heals in both motos.

Round 2 in Thailand saw the Kawasaki rider of Ferrandis dislocate his shoulder after going down in qualifying. Herlings capitalized and rode to another 1-1 finish. In moto 2 it was the hard charging Husqvarna rider Max Anstie finishing 2nd after crashing hard earlier in the day.

With Ferrandis injured Herlings continued his winning form going undefeated in his home race of Valkenswaard marking his 50th GP win. He continued to be undefeated the following 4 rounds. However, the MXGP of Trentino saw the number 4 of Ferrandis ready to challenge after returning to racing only one week before. After a hard fought battle Ferrandis handed Herlings his first loss of the year in moto 1. Seemingly unfazed the number 84 KTM of Herlings claimed the overall after a going 2-1 on the day and then won four more rounds before breaking his collar bone.

After missing the MXGPs' of Loket, Belgium, and Switzerland due to his injury, Herlings finished the season strong to claim the FIM MX2 world championship at the first ever Monster Energy MXGP of Americas held on the dirt track of Charlotte Motor Speedway. Jeremy Seewer's consistent season aboard his Suzuki secured him a well earned 2nd overall in the championship. Third place wasn't decided until the final round at Monster Energy MXGP of USA, where Yamaha's Benoit Paturel edged out the Englishman of Max Anstie.

In 2017 the season started out at the all familiar circuit of Qatar, but there were some notable changes coming into the first few rounds of the new MXGP season. The biggest and most anticipated change was that of the 2016 FIM MX2 World Champion, Red Bull KTM Factory Racing's Jeffrey Herlings moving up into the premier MXGP class. Aside from Herlings joining the field, Red Bull KTM Factory Racing's Antonio Cairoli would start the season fully fit and healthy against a borage of competitors including the reigning FIM World Champion, Team HRC's Tim Gajser and 2015 Champion Romain Febvre.

When the gate dropped on the new mesh starting grid in Qatar Cairoli made it clear he was back to his winning ways as he took the first overall of the 2017 season all whilst battling with Gajser. For Jeffrey Herlings the opening round and the several following where a challenge while he healed from an off-season injury along with the realization that he had underestimated the depth and talent of the MXGP field.

A notable point of the 2017 season was that of the MXGP of Europe in Valkenswaard, Netherlands. While it was Rockstar Energy Husqvarna Factory Racing's Gautier Paulin who took the overall win, much of the attention was instead on the resurgence of Jeffrey Herlings whom was finally starting to show the speed many assumed he was capable of as he finished 2nd.

One round later, at the MXGP of Latvia in Kegums, Herlings fans rejoiced as Jeffrey went on to take double victories for the overall win, the first of his MXGP career. While Herlings was on the rise it was the beginning of the issues for Gajser as he would suffer injury in a hard crash through the roller section. A stop later in Germany only added insult to the injury when Gajser cross rutted on a high-speed section of the track resulting in a DNF.

While Gajser healed, a new winner in 2017 surfaced by the likes of Monster Energy Kawasaki's Clement Desalle. The Belgian took the MXGP of France overall by one point over Cairoli and quickly proved at the next stop, the MXGP of Russia, that it was no fluke as he again claimed an overall win

The season then became a battle of giants between Antonio Cairoli and Jeffrey Herlings. The first epic battle came at the Fiat Professional FULLBACK MXGP of Lombardia where a game of cat and mouse ended in favor of Cairoli. 2 stops later at the MXGP of Belgium the duo again battled head to head but the determined Herlings topped the veteran of Cairoli.

Herlings would also win the MXGP of Switzerland Presented by iXS cutting down Cairoli's points lead in the process. When the series headed to Sweden misfortune struck Herlings as he had a mechanical issue and lost points back to Cairoli. What was too little too late for Herlings provided to be just what the doctor ordered for Cairoli who went on to claim his 9th FIM Motocross World Championship at the MXGP of The Netherlands taking place in Assen.

In the MX2 category for 2017 Red Bull KTM Factory Racing's Pauls Jonass returned from injury as the lead KTM MX2 rider with Herlings now aboard the 450 machine. Lining up alongside Jonass was a long list of competitors with massive talent from American Rockstar Energy Husqvarna Factory Racing's Thomas Covington and Switzerland native and Suzuki World MX2's Jeremy Seewer to young guns previously from the EMX250 category like Monster Energy DRT Kawasaki's Darian Sanayei and Rockstar Energy Husqvarna Factory Racing's Thomas Kjer Olsen.

To start the season Jonass won in Qatar while Seewer took the Indonesian victory. The MXGP of Trentino saw a new face stood on the top step of the podium, the young Spaniard Jorge Prado. Jonass would win next at Valkenswaard for the MXGP of Europe before heading to his home GP, the MXGP of Latvia. While hopes were high for Jonass to win at home the cards instead fell in favor of the EMX250 recruit and MX2 rookie Thomas Kjer Olsen.

After Latvia Jonass gained traction and won 3 of the next six but Seewer did the same. As the title chase was close Jorge Prado claimed his 2nd overall of his career in Belgium. As the season headed towards a conclusion Jonass managed his points lead well as Seewer played catch-up. In the end the final round at Pays de Montbéliard decided the championship to the favor of Jonass.

The 2018 Championship reached a new milestone for world motocross with an amazing schedule of 20 rounds kicking off at the stunning MXGP of Patagonia-Argentina with new contenders in the MXGP class such as Monster Energy Kawasaki Racing team's Julien Lieber and 2017 MX2 Vice Champion Jeremy Seewer on a Wilvo Yamaha.

While many where intrigued with the rookies almost all eyes were on defending champion Antonio Cairoli and his younger teammate Jeffrey Herlings. Herlings came into the season healthy proving his speed and determination against Cairoli in Neuquen to take the first red plate from a massive deficit with a last lap pass.

The pair continued to spar off as the season progressed with Cairoli taking the red plate at RedSand, Spain as Herlings took second overall. In the next seven rounds Herlings took 6 wins while Cairoli took none and Monster Energy Kawasaki Racing Team's Clement Desalle took a lone victory in Russia.

The series was headed for Lombardia, Italy when news broke of Herlings injuring himself during training. The injury kept Herlings off the starting line in Italy and Cairoli took full advantage closing the points lead which had previously grown.

A mere two weeks later Herlings was back on the starting line at the MXGP of Indonesia in Pangkal Pinang where he fought through pain and miraculously came away with the win while Cairoli injured his hand. From Indonesia to Turkey Herlings was impeccable and took his first MXGP World Title at his home round in Assen for the MXGP of the Netherlands.

With his family, fellow countrymen, and team Herlings made history taking the title at the conclusion of race win with a defiant win. Though already champion Herlings came back to the line and took another win for the overall. Perhaps the most dominant season of all time at the highest level of Motocross was topped off by Herlings with another double victory and overall win at the MXGP of Italy in Imola.

The 2018 MX2 season was in many ways comparable to that of the bigger MXGP class with the teammates of Pauls Jonass and Jorge Prado from Red Bull KTM fighting each other for the title. While the defending champion was Jonass, Prado was the young star on the rise. At the beginning of the season Prado was recovering from a winter elbow injury but caught up to the pace of Jonass as soon as Valkenswaard in the Netherlands where the two first battled.

Through the first three rounds Jonass was unbeatable with 6 race wins and 3 overall wins to match. When the series landed in Trentino, Italy, however the young Spaniard split race wins with the American Thomas Covington on the way to his first win. In the next 16 races of the year Prado took 11 wins opposed to 2 from Jonass as 1 a piece went to Thomas Kjer Olsen, Calvin Vlaanderen, and Covington.

The season finale in Imola, Italy was set to host the championship deciding races but a knee injury to Jonass from a previous battle with Prado left the Latvian out of contention giving the gold plate and 2018 MX2 Championship title to the 17 year old Jorge Prado!

MONSTER ENERGY FIM MOTOCROSS OF NATIONS 72 YEARS OF HISTORY

FIRST YEARS: DOMINANCE OF THE BRITISH TEAM

Motocross, known as "scramble" when it was "invented" in the 20s, developed quickly in the 30s. After the war, the FIM elevated this sport at international level by giving birth to the Motocross des Nations (official title in French, run with 500cc motorcycles), a classic event which has been run annually ever since.

The inaugural event was held near The Hague, in the Netherlands, on 20 July 1947. Three nations were invited – the Netherlands, Belgium and Great Britain. The Belgian rider Auguste Mingels was the fastest, but the A team of Great Britain with Bill Nicholson (BSA), Fred Rist (BSA) and Bob Ray (Ariel) won the first team title, ahead of the Belgian "B" squad.

The second "Nations" contest took place in August 1948 in La Fraineuse, close to the Belgian city of Spa. National federations of France, Sweden and Luxembourg were also invited for an event dominated by the local team. Nic Jansen, Marcel Cox and Andre Milhoux took first, second and fifth places, clinching the first Trophy for Belgium.

At the end of August 1949 it was the turn of Great Britain to host the final competition of the decade at Brands Hatch. Great Britain won the competition for the second time, thus keeping the Cup indefinitely. The ACU then donated another Cup for the competition's winning team. The Vice-President of the FIM International Sporting Commission Peter Chamberlain had always been a strong supporter of Motocross, and worked a great deal on behalf of the national teams' competition. After he passed away in 1954, the cup was officially named after him.

In the 50s, the British dominance was quite strong: seven victories out of 10 in the Motocross des Nations before 1960. The only exceptions were the victories of Belgium in 1951 and Sweden in 1955 and 1958.

A competition for 250cc machines, named the Trophée des Nations, was created by the FIM as from the 1961 season. Victories in the first years were clinched by the Swedes after two initial successes for Great Britain. In the 500cc team event Great Britain lost against Sweden in 1961/62, but then won five years in a row, reaching the number of 14 victories in 20 years, however their last win was in 1967 and it would take 27 years before they won again.

HARD FIGHTS

In Kishinev – then in the Soviet Union – the Russian team took the Chamberlain Trophy for the first time. Then Belgium finally won again the Trophy in Farleigh Castle (1969) after chasing after it for 18 years, with legendary names such as Roger de Coster, Joel Robert and Sylvain Geboers.

The 70s saw a big change at the mechanical level, with the massive arrival of Japanese manufacturers. Suzuki started first, quickly followed by Yamaha, Honda and Kawasaki. The first years of the decade were shared between Sweden and Belgium. In Sweden 1974, behind the local team, a US team appeared for the first time on the rostrum, in the second place, composed of Jim Pomeroy (Bultaco), Brad Lackey (Husqvarna), Marty Tripes (Husqvarna) and Jimmy Weinert (Kawasaki), just ahead of the Russian squad including 250cc World Champion Guennady Moisseev. In 1975 in Czechoslovakia, the local team finished ahead of Belgium – despite the presence of three World Champions, Roger de Coster, Harry Everts and Gaston Rahier – and Great Britain. Two wins of the Belgian team preceded the second victory of a Russian team, still with Guennady Moisseev.

In the Trophée des Nations contest, Belgium conquered all titles except one (Russia in 1979) as of 1969 until 1980. In the Motocross des Nations Belgium again won two titles (79, 80) before the American domination became effective. Having missed both events in the two previous years, the American team arrived at Lommel in Belgium in September 1981 for the Trophée des Nations with four Honda riders managed by former World Champion Roger de Coster. Danny Laporte, Chuck Sun, Johnny O'Mara and Donnie Hansen destroyed the opposition, and one week later won again in the Motocross des Nations in Bielstein, Germany. Changes were made in the team from one year to the next, but it did not change anything. The American field was full of top riders during the 80s, and De Coster's team got eight victories (four in each team competition) in four years.

In 1980 the FIM decided to introduce a third Motocross team contest with 125cc motorcycles: the Coupe des Nations. The Italian team led by Michele Rinaldi won the first two titles, followed by Belgium (with Eric Geboers) and the Netherlands (with Kees Van der Ven and John Van de Berk).

NEW FORMAT

In 1985 a new format combining all three classes in a single Motocross des Nations was introduced by the FIM, gathering all three classes (125cc, 250cc and 500cc) with one rider in each class and three races per event: 125/500, 125/250, 250/500

Nothing could stop the Americans though - this would only happen in 1994, after 17 consecutive victories (13 in the Motocross des Nations, and the last four of the Trophée des Nations), against...Great Britain, in Roggenburg, Switzerland.

Their teams always integrated world-recognized top riders. Danny "Magoo" Chandler won all four heats in the team contests in 1982, but perhaps the greatest win of all came at Maggiora in 1986 when America's trio of David Bailey, Ricky Johnson and Johnny O'Mara went through all three heats unbeaten by the rest of the world.

After Great Britain's win in 1994, it was the turn of Belgium to be back at the top of the competition in 1995 with Stefan Everts, Joel Smets and Marnicq Bervoets. But the Americans were still there. In '96 in Jerez, the team driven by multichampion Jeremy McGrath beat the French and Belgian teams. Then, the US team would be off the rostrum for three consecutive years, which saw two Belgian wins and the first crown for Italy (with World Champions Andrea Bartolini and Alessio Chiodi, and also Claudio Federici), in 1999 in Brazil, ahead of France and Belgium. Once again the Americans were back in 2000 in St Jean d'Angély, led by their new top rider Ricky Carmichael. In Namur 2001, it was finally the turn of the French team to clinch their first victory (with David Vuillemin, Yves Demaria and Luigi Séguy), beating the Belgians on their home track. Italy won a perturbed 2002 edition, and Belgium - still with the record holder in individual World titles Stefan Everts - won the 2003 and 2004 contest, before the US comeback in the last five editions, James Stewart having replaced Carmichael as the team's top rider in 2006. Carmichael was back in 2007, celebrating his last Motocross appearance in Budds Creek while Stewart was part of the 2008 winning team.

In 2009 the event came back to Italy after an absence of 23 years, this time in Franciacorta. The American Team got the Trophy again but failed in repeating their countrymen's performance in 1986 at Maggiora. The trio made of Ryan Dungey, Jake Weimer and Ivan Tedesco struggled against nations such as France, Belgium and Italy. Eventually USA won from France and Belgium while a crash of Italy's top rider and multi-time World Champion Antonio Cairoli in heat three ended the team's hopes of victory.

In 2010 the FIM Motocross of Nations was back in the USA where the home riders (Team USA) obtained their 21st Chamberlain Trophy in Lakewood, Denver, thanks to the performance of Ryan Dungey, Trey Canard and Andrew Short. The German team, who was leading the standings after race two thanks to the superb racing of youngster Ken Roczen and Max Nagl, were finally second followed by the Belgian team in third.

The following year it was a turning point for the event, as Monster Energy played an important role and became the title sponsor of the 2011 FIM Motocross of Nations. Saint Jean d'Angely in France was the chosen scenario for the 65th edition of the MXoN and the French fans witnessed a dramatic ending. The French team got into the final heat leading the classification with nine points advantage over team USA, but in the decisive heat Pourcel ended up with an unfortunate DNF allowing the Americans to obtain their 22nd victory ahead of France and Australia, who were very consistent throughout the whole event.

In 2012, the Monster Energy FIM Motocross of Nations went back to Lommel, the same circuit where Team USA started to dominate the event beating the Belgians on home soil in 1981. During the 2012 edition Team USA struggled a lot in the deep sand of Lommel and they could only finish on the third step of the podium, breaking their impressive seventh winning streak. The German team was the most consistent and obtained their maiden Chamberlain Trophy, while the home team finished with a well-deserved second position.

2013's Monster Energy FIM Motocross of Nations in Teutschenthal, Germany, was probably one of the most anticipated events ever in the history of motocross. Heading into the event Team Germany would be defending the crown on their home turf while Team Belgium and USA would be lining up with hopes of redeeming themselves after a bitter defeat the previous year in Lommel, Belgium. While the pressure was laid heavily upon the local boys Team Germany's Max Nagl, Ken Roczen and Dennis Ullrich, a crash which resulted in injury for Dennis Ullrich soon blew the teams hopes of a podium finish leaving the race to be duked out by Team Belgium and Team USA. With the final waving of the chequered flag it was surprisingly Team Belgium who narrowly took the victory ahead of Team USA. While the biggest surprise was Italy's third place finish after their captain, seven-time FIM Motocross World Champion, Antonio Cairoli dominated both his races for the second year in a row.

Onto 2014, the Monster Energy FIM Motocross of Nations tackled the loamy circuit of Kegums, Latvia for the first time in history. With the base of the circuit being classed as a sandy, yet nothing like Lommel, the defending champions Team Belgium were the favourites. Of course Team USA had their devoted fans backing them too while the eventual winners Team France were the most criticised team going in with all three riders, Gautier Paulin, Steven Frossard and Dylan Ferrandis being Kawasaki riders and KTM's FIM MX2 World Champion Jordi Tixier being excluded.

Despite the harsh criticism, Team France couldn't be flawed on the weekend as Paulin rode amazing to dominate every race, which was earnestly backed up by the outstanding performances of teammates Frossard and Ferrandis. With Team France being victorious, Team Belgium also rode solid with their team of Jeremy Van Horebeek, Kevin Strijbos and Julien Lieber for second while Team USA made up of Ryan Dungey, Eli Tomac and Jeremy Martin were dropped back to the third step of the podium.

In 2015 history was made as Team France, Romain Febvre, Gautier Paulin and Marvin Musquin, lined up as the defending champions on home soil and won! It was the first time Team France have ever won back-to-back and only their third time ever winning the event which is known as the summit of the season. What made the 2015 edition of the Monster Energy FIM Motocross of Nations extra special was the fact it was held in Ernée, an entire decade after the memorable 2005 Motocross of Nations which took place on the very same track.

Team France were by far the hot favorites heading in with Romain Febvre being the reigning world champion and Gautier Paulin the runner up in the prestigious MXGP series. Marvin Musquin added to the lethalness of the French team as the runner up in the American motocross championship. The ones expected to threaten France's throne were, as always, the Americans, Team USA. Representing the stars and stripes in 2015, Justin Barcia, Jeremy Martin and Cooper Webb flew the flag high. All three riders put in solid performances with Barcia winning in MXGP while Martin and Webb backed him up with silver medals. It went down to the wire, but unfortunately no-one could match the speed of MXGP's gold plate holder, riding for France, Romain Febvre and also that of Marvin Musquin, both Frenchmen won their respective classes, Open and MX2, while Gautier Paulin also put in a solid ride for 4th in MXGP.

With the final waving of the checkered flag, Team France won by a narrow 2 points over Team USA, while Team Belgium, Jeremy Van Horebeek, Julien Lieber and Ken De Dycker, managed to round off the podium.

The Monster Energy FIM Motocross of Nations reached another level of epicness in 2015. The venue was packed with an awesome crowd unafraid of showing their enthusiasm and love for motocross. In 2016 we expected nothing less as the event took place in Maggiora, Italy, two whole decades since it played host to one of the greatest events in history, the 1986 Motocross of Nations. Italy provided a fabulous crowd, as it is known as one of the most motocross mad countries in the world.

The 2016 Monster Energy FIM Motocross of Nations brought the American team of Jason Anderson, Cooper Webb, and Alex Martin to compete against team France. Team France, whose goal was winning the Chamberlain Trophy for third consecutive year, was represented by Romain Febvre, Gautier Paulin, and Benoit Paturel. In the first race Glenn Coldenhoff of the Netherlands grabbed the holeshot but shuffled back after being passed by Italy's Antonio Cairoli. It was Romain Febvre making moves though, he charged forward passing several riders including Cairoli taking the race win for France, Strijbos, Webb, and Van Horebeek rounded out the top 5.

Race 2 was all team USA's Jason Anderson out front. Battles ensued behind him between Herlings, Paulin, and Tonus. Herlings finished in second after remounting his KTM due to a slide out, Paulin then made his way to the podium ahead of Tonus. Team USA was then in the points lead but immediately suffered a major blow when Anderson was landed on after crossing the finish.

The third and final race of the day had Herlings in the lead, and it was left to Cooper Webb for the United States; Webb was positioned well in the race but eventually fell and lost ground. The deciding moment wasn't until the final lap where France's Romain Febvre made his way around the Kawasaki of Searle. Herlings won the race but the late move from Febvre gave France the single point they needed to win in epic form, the Netherlands finished second followed by team USA.

In 2017 the Monster Energy FIM Motocross of Nations returned to the historic and epic venue of Matterley Basin, United Kingdom for the first time in 11 years. Among the top challengers for the Chamberlain Trophy would again be the winner of the last 3 consecutive Motocross of Nations, Team France who was compromised of Gautier Paulin, Romain Febvre, and Christophe Charlier. Looking to the steal the title as the best country in the world of motocross was the Netherlands Jeffrey Herlings, Glenn Coldenhoff and Brian Bogers and the UK's Max Anstie, Dean Wilson, and Tommy Searle.

As the gate dropped for race one the Netherlands Glenn Coldenhoff took the Fox holeshot but the hometown hero of Anstie was right there and took the lead for Great Britain. Behind Coldenhoff was France's Gautier Paulin who took over second when Coldenhoff made mistake over a jump. At the end of race 1 Anstie won ahead of a hard charging Tim Gajser and Gautier Paulin.

Prior to race 2 staring France was already in the lead of the nations classification ahead of the Netherlands as team Great Britain's Tommy Searle had bike issues in race 1. Race 2 was the Open and MX2 categories and the Netherlands and France were again strong with Herlings leading and Febvre in second. Herlings crashed on the same jump which his teammate, Coldenhoff, made a mistake but the "Bullet" shot back to the front of the field with a pass on Febvre. Herlings won the race ahead of Febvre and the USA's Zach Osborne.

The 3rd and final race would decide it all and the 3 time defending champs of France still led the way over the Netherlands. Anstie took the final holeshot but Febvre was right with him. Anstie later made a mistake on the same jump as Coldenhoff and Herlings did prior handing the lead over to Febvre. While Anstie rebounded and fought back to the lead Herlings did his best passing Febvre as well but it would be too little too late as Anstie won ahead of Herlings and Febvre. When the scores were tallied it was clear that France was the victor with 10 point less than the Netherlands who would again have to settle for 2nd while the home team, Great Britain, returned to the podium for the first time in 20 years!

2018 saw the return of the Monster Energy FIM Motocross of Nations to USA at none other than the famous RedBud circuit in Buchanan, Michigan. The American venue was packed with one of the largest MXoN crowds ever seen who gloriously showed their enthusiasm and love for global motocross racing.

The home team USA was led by the countries best riders Eli Tomac, Justin Barcia, and Aaron Plessinger and cheered on by the patriotic and devoted American fans. Italy's team of Antonio Cairoli, Alessandro Lupino, and Michele Cervellin put together an incredible weekend finishing 2nd only 2 points back of 1st. Meanwhile the team from the Netherlands took the final spot on the podium as Jeffrey Herlings and Glenn Coldenhoff showed incredible heart with 1-2-1-1 finishes after the Dutch MX2 rider Calvin Vlaanderen was out with an injury.

It was team France's Gautier Paulin, Jordi Tixier, and Dylan Ferrandis making history again however, lined up as the defending champions they continued the French domination of the Chamberlain Trophy for the 5th year in succession!

Throughout the years this event, whose English name - Motocross of Nations – was officially adopted in 2003, has become the peak of not only the FIM Motocross World Championship season but motocross seasons across the globe. Brace yourself for 2019, it's bound to reach yet another level of racing at the famous Assen TT circuit in the Netherlands!

6 TIME WOMEN'S MOTOCROSS WORLD CHAMPION KIARA FONTANESI

One of the most recognized riders in women's motocross, Kiara Fontanesi, is by far the most successful in the history of FIM Women's Motocross, having 6 FIM WMX titles to her name Kiara is an idol women round the world.

Kiara Fontanesi was born and raised in Parma, Italy, where she started riding at a very young age. Kiara took after her brother who ripped around on a mini-bike. One ride later the young gymnast was hooked and ready to start racing.

In 2009 Kiara, at the age of 15, decided it was time to take on the world as she entered the FIM Women's Motocross World Championship. While she didn't see success early, a season of training and determination worked in her favor as she came out swinging at the final round of the 2009 WMX championship in Lierop, The Netherlands, winning the race!

One year later, in 2010, Kiara asserted herself as a permanent force to be reckoned with as she pulled off second overall at the season opener in Bulgaria and then backed up the result up with a series of podium finishes and a couple of race wins finishing fourth in the overall championship standings.

In 2011, Kiara continued to improve which resulted in several strong races and finishes in the 2011 WMX World Championship. After the season of bar to bar racing and impressive results, Kiara settled for second behind the WMX champion Stephanie Laier.

2012 was a coming of age for Kiara, after coming so close to the title in 2011, the eighteen-year-old was on a mission to accomplish her lifelong dream of becoming World Champion. Not only did she do just that, she blew away the competition and wrapped up the championship one round early in Matterley Basin, Great Britain.

World domination had been achieved, but at nineteen years old one world title wasn't enough and Kiara went on to claim her second consecutive WMX world title in similar style. After two years of dominance in women's motocross, Kiara was finally challenged. Although the competition was very stiff in 2014, Kiara still managed to rise above and claimed her third FIM WMX title.

In 2015 the battle for WMX supremacy was a battle between Kiara and the 2008 WMX world champion Livia Lancelot, if it wasn't Livia winning the round it was Kiara and vice versa. Both riders took five race wins each, but it was Kiara who took the most overall wins, three to Livia's two.

Heading into the sixth and final round at the circuit of Loket in the Czech Republic only two points separated the protagonists in what was set to be a tense match up for the 2015 WMX crown. Livia ended up seizing her engine on the sighting lap of the final race, which meant Kiara was able to wrap up the FIM Women's Motocross World Championship, for the fourth time in row.

In 2016 the competition continued to strengthen and Kiara made it difficult to contend for the championship after three scoreless second races during the season. Kiara finished 4th in the championship 88 points behind Livia Lancelot who took the title.

2017 was a testing year for the women as they faced varied conditions throughout the 6 race season and coming into the final round at Pays de Montbéliard, France, only 5 points separated the top 4 women. Anything was possible as Kiara came into the French race 4th in the championship standings. While the other riders struggled to have 2 strong race results Kiara scored a first and a 3rd giving her one more point to claim her 5th World title over runner up Livia Lancelot!

2018 provided different challenges for Kiara as her long-time rival Lancelot retired from racing at the end of 2017. Fontanesi however found competition in the form of the Netherland's Nancy van de Ven and New Zealand's Courtney Duncan.

The 2018 six-round season started slowly for Fontanesi with a 3rd at the season opener and a 4th at the second round in Portugal. Fontanesi progressed to take 2nd at the round of Germany but was still unable to match the blistering pace of Courtney Duncan. However at Kiara's home round in Lombardia, Italy she split race wins with Nancy van de Ven to take second ahead of Duncan. The new confidence helped Fontanesi to take double wins at the round of the Netherlands while Duncan was out with injury. The Championship then came down to the final round at Imola, Italy where she managed to take an emotional 6th world title on home soil in front of family and Italian fans.

2018 EMX250 CHAMPION MATHYS BOISRAME

The European Championship thriving with some of the most talented riders from around the planet looking to move into the professional ranks of MX2 or MXGP is without a doubt that of EMX250. The class is not only one of the most competitive due to the speed and skill but also the depth of talent with various races hosting upwards of 70 riders trying to qualify for a 40-man gate.

Throughout the season over 160 riders appeared on the entry lists but France's Mathys Boisrame topped them all and claimed the title of 2018 EMX250 Champion as early as round 10 of 11. Boisrame grew up in France and still lives in the Western part of the country near Romagne to this day.

When he first rode on a 50 it wasn't love at first sight but some years later a second try on a pit bike sparked a passion of riding that his family supported ever since. Mathys credits his father's training and coaching as the main reason for reaching the level which he is at today. From the pit bike he progressed to a 65cc then competed in the Minivert Championships and at the French national level winning the French MX2 title before scoring the EMX250 Championship last season.

Boisrame's main struggle was at the opening round in Spain where he only took eight points but at the second round in Portugal he showed no sign of weakness with double race wins to take the overall. His second win of the year came in Latvia after a less impressive weekend in Russia resulted in 9th

At round 5 in Great Britain the up and down start to the season continued with an 8th place overall but when the series came to the French venue of St. Jean d'Angely he took the championship leaders red plate in front of his home crowd. The points lead lasted for the Mathys throughout the remaining 5 rounds as he sealed the gold plate and title in Bulgaria.

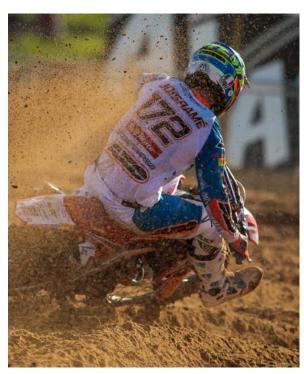

Mathys was impressive throughout the 2018 season as a whole taking six individual race wins and five overall wins. The 2018 EMX250 Championship was the first major success of the Frenchman who is quickly growing into one of the top young European riders.

Boisrame heads into 2019 with the new title of European 250cc Motocross Champion but will make the move into MX2 World Championship competition. Racing in MX2 has been Mathys childhood dream and takes in the footsteps of several of today's biggest names who transition from EMX such as Tim Gajser and Pauls Jonass.

EMX125 PRESENTED BY FMF RACING CHAMPION PROFILE: THIBAULT BENISTANT

The 2018 EMX125 Championship presented by FMF Racing hosted some of the best young talents in motocross racing from around both Europe and the world. The class features talented riders as they battle on 125cc Two-Stroke machines but in the end the one rider holding the gold plate was Thibault Benistant.

At the age of 16 Thibault Benistant from Châteauneuf-du-Pape, France grew up in a family with a tradition of passion for motocross. Both Benistant's Grandfather and Father shared the love of the sport which Thibault soon started to idolize as well.

Combining school, racing, and training Benistant competed in the EMX85 Championship during 2016 where he took 16th place before joining the MJC Yamaha team in 2017 to compete in his first EMX125 season. Benistant had a mixed rookie season in the class with scoreless races combing with strong performances to finish 12th overall on the year.

2018 however hosted 8 rounds of racing alongside the premier MXGP and MX2 classes where a stronger, more consistent, and focused Thibault was seen. The season started with a top five for Benistant at the first round in Valkenswaard, Netherlands.

While it was the Austrian Rene Hofer who impressed many taking two of the first three overall victories plus another race win Benistant scored 2 top 5 finishes and a podium. The time then came for the young Frenchman, Benistant, to battle for the title when Hofer was out with injury.

His first ever title was fought against tough competition however first Emil Weckman and Petr Polak before Italy's Mattia Guadagnini. While Gaudagnini had several strong rounds of racing, Benistant's consistent top five finishes where more valuable.

While Thibault was not well known before the season he proved well worthy of his place at the top of European racing when he clinched the 2018 Championship title at the eighth and final round of the year in Assen, Netherlands.

The first major milestone in the career of the French youngster was accomplished by consistent results at the front of the field including 3 individual race wins, several podiums, and 7 top 5 finishes of the 8 weekends raced!

2018 EMX300 CHAMPION BRAD ANDERSON

The 2018 EMX300 Presented by FMF Racing championship was another season full of 2-stroke action! In the end one racer stood atop the rest and did so defending his 2017 championship crown. The Champion for now the second consecutive year is Great Britain's Brad Anderson.

Anderson was born in Towlaw, England, in 1981 where his motocross career start-ed with a simple pedal bike, riding BMX at age 4. Anderson's racing success came soon after when he became European BMX champion at age 6.

Even with his promising start in the world of BMX Anderson decided to go into the highspeed and powerful sport of motocross. In 2009 Brad would win the British championship and he did so again in 2011. From the UK Brad moved to Australia with his wife for a year and raced the Australian motocross championship. Finish-ing third in the championship his wife then became pregnant and the decision to move back home to the UK was made.

Anderson has also ridden for team Great Britain in the Motocross of Nations twice during his career first at the American stop in Colorado where the team only missed the overall podium by a single point and also in France were the team would again place 4th.

Outside of motocross Brad stays true to his roots bicycling, playing golf, walking in the Lake District near his home and the occasional game of poker. Now a father Anderson also enjoys taking his son out on his bike.

The past two seasons for Anderson were fantastic and while 2017 started off with a bang as he went 1-1 at the opening round in Tuetschenthal, Germany 2018's season start at Valkenswaard resulted in a 3rd place. With the #1 plate on his KTM Anderson struggled and the second round of the 7 stop season as well with 6-3 race results landing him 6th overall while longtime rival Mike Kras took the win and red plate.

However the following two rounds in Russia and his home race of Great Britain a revitalized Anderson took both overall victories and added the red background to his #1 plate signifying his points lead. By the final round at the MXGP of Italy in Imola Anderson had a strong points' lead but Kras was still in the Championship chase. Kras did all he could taking double race wins and the overall but Anderson's 6th overall finalized his title defense and championship by 5 points!
